Work sessions conducted by the Board of County Commissioners are informal discussions among Commissioners, discussions between the Commissioners and County staff and with persons who are invited to attend to provide information to the Commissioners on specific topics. Work sessions are not public hearings. Members of the public may attend work sessions to listen to the discussions; however, public comment will not be taken. The Board does not take any formal actions at work sessions. The scheduling of work sessions is subject to change because the Board may move a work session to an earlier or later time during the day to accommodate changes in the Board's schedule.
